Char Grilled - Landline May 2009

The rules of engagement for the new carbon economy are still being formulated but already there's lively political debate over the role for biochar. It's a charcoal made from biological waste and is raising plenty of interest as a way of capturing carbon, reducing greenhouse gas emissions while boosting soil fertility.

View video (broadband)

View video (dial-up)

http://www.biochar.org/joomla Powered by Joomla! Generated: 16 July, 2024, 10:45